engaged in private business. Shortly after the speaker read a letter from Lord Viscount Melville, requesting to be admitted into the body of the house, to be heard in his defence. The honorable Robert Dundas Saunders, his lordship's son, then moved that his lordship be called in; which being agreed to, the speaker desired Mr. Coleman, the sergeant at arms, to take the Mace and conduct Lord Viscount Melville into the house. In the mean time Mr. Bellamy, the principal messenger, brought in a square arm chair, and placed it within the body of the house, within the bar, on the left hand side. The sergeant at arms then took up the Mace, and having sworn it three times, went out of the house and took his station outside, in the lobby, in front of the door of the house, and also opposite the door of the treasury room.— Mr. Heard one of the messengers had previously thrown open the folding doors of the latter apartment, and Lord Viscount Melville, being informed by him, that the house requested his attendance, his lordship came out and walked uncovered into the house, attended by the sergeant and Mace. His lordship was dressed in black and wore a close buckled whip powdered.
He bowed three times as he approached, and on coming within the bar, the speaker who wore his hat all the time, addressing him, said, "My Lord Melville there is a chair for your lordship." His lordship then sat down and put on his hat. There was a loud murmur in the house on his coming in. As soon as it subsided, which was in less than two minutes, his lordship arose, and taking off his hat he laid it upon the seat of the chair, and upon the hat several papers. His lordship then standing at the back of the chair commenced his speech, in the course of which he frequently refreshed his memory from the papers before him.
His lordship spoke for 2 hours & a quarter.
His manner was firm & impressive; and he did not even in the part where he appealed to the feelings appear the least shaken.
The moment he had concluded he took up his papers deliberately, one by one, having put his hat under his arm, made a bow to the speaker and withdrew, attended by the Sergeant, who during the whole of the speech, remained standing on the right hand side of his Lordship, but at the distance of a few yards, with the mace resting upon the ground, and his hand upon it.—
The house was uncommonly crowded.
Not fewer than five hundred members were Lord Viscount Melville's speech will be read with interest. Upon the subject of the 10,000*l.* and other sums of the public money received by him, and not applied to naval purposes, his lordship positively declared, that "private honor, and personal convenience" must prevent him from ever giving any account of them.

Accounts from Paris to the 31st are received.

The Moniteur asserts that Sir James Craig's expedition was compelled to quit the Tagus, in consequence of the French and Spanish Ambassadors threatening to leave Lisbon, if the armament was suffered to remain. It is certain that such remonstrances were made, and there is little doubt that the Portuguese government urged Sir James to hasten his departure; but it is not likely that any menaces were used, as stated in the Moniteur. The French official Journal likewise states that the Carthagen fleet had conveyed troops &c. to Minorca. This may be true, tho' the whole article derives an air of ridicule from the absurd statement, that the Carthagena fleet, of eight sail, had chased Lord Nelson's of eleven.

It is positively stated that M. Novozil-zoff's passports were, immediately on their being applied for, sent off from Milan. M. Novozilzoff is expected in Paris about the middle of June. Letters from Holland say, that it is generally believed that a negotiation for a general peace, which both Russia and Prussia are anxious to effect, will soon take place. We do not think much reliance should be placed on these statements, even as to the fact of a negotiation taking place. As to the probability of peace, the Dutch merchants know no more than the meanest shopkeeper in London.

The Nile lugger reconnoitered the Chanate, on the 27th ult. and found in Rochefort, one ship of 3 decks, five two deckers, three frigates, two brigs, and several gun-boats.

In Ferrol the enemy has 12 ships of the line, besides frigates, which are watched by Sir Robert Calder with six ships of the line only.

Our ships at Brest are in daily expectation of their coming out, as they have 27,000 troops embarked, and their ships of the line appear full of men.

June 13.

Extract of a private letter from an officer on board one of his majesty's ships to the Downs, dated June 10.

"We have 13 sail of the line here now, the north sea squadron being ordered round; and we expect five sail more from the westward: I believe it is expected that the combined fleet is coming north about.
By every cruizer that comes in I learn, that the French appear in all their ports ready for a push out, and most of the officers are of opinion they certainly will do it shortly, as their preparations with their shipping are different from what they have seen before."

We yesterday received a letter from an officer on board one of the transports in the Cove of Cork, in the expedition under Sir Eyre Coote. It says, "this morning, June 5th, the troops were brigaded as follows: The 1st, or Highland brigade, consisting of the 71st, 72d, 93d, and Buffs, under the command of general M'Parlane.
The second, of the 8th, 24th and 83d, with artillery, under gen. Balfour. The third brigade, of the 32d, 38th and 62d, under the command of general Montresor.
The 89th regiment is to form a detached corps, under the command of lieut. col. lord Blaney. I have not yet learned who is to command the artillery, or staff corps.
General Drummond is second in command under Sir Eyre Coote. The troops are in good health, and are landed every day to keep them so. Our destination is not yet known; but it is supposed we are going upon some remote and desperate expedition, and not to the West-Indies; for all the married officers are ordered to send their wives on shore immediately, and the transports are to be furnished with provisions for six months."

The Moniteur contains the following article:

"Since the English call the late operations of our squadron in the West-Indies plunder, it is but just they should know that this plunder will not be over so soon as they think. We flatter ourselves even that ere a week has passed over our heads, intelligence from every part of the world will announce to the English commerce other events of the like nature. We shall then print, perhaps, a little work composed under the eyes of Mr. Pitt, and published by his orders, a short time before the first hostilities, in order to establish the propriety, the advantages and the necessity of the perpetuity of the war against France. This perpetual war then appeared suitable, advantageous, and necessary to British rapacity, and to that pride which was even then misplaced, and now nothing less than ridiculous. The proud, the powerful, the circumspect English, hear the departure of the French fleet when it has taken Dominica; of the departure of the Toulon squadron when it has passed the Straits; they will hear no more of it for some months.

"Lastly, they have not heard of the second Roshefort squadron, sailed a long time since, and which the English frigates came to watch and observe not more than eight days. We shall say nothing concerning several large frigates which have been sent out of our ports, to which the English may attach little importance, but which will strike them a blow on those coasts they think hardly known to our seamen. They have been dreaming that there is no longer any wood in our forests and arsenals, that there exists no longer a maritime population on our coast; let them learn, however, that there are no less than 30 men of war on our stocks, all of which will be ready for sea in 18 months.

"Were all the squadrons which the Emperor has sent forth to perish, after having laid waste the English commerce, great fleets are preparing, and numerous young men are ready to man them; it would be easier for the King of England to be crowned King of France, in Paris itself, than to disinherit the Great Nation from the commerce of the world. It is not that we entertain the haughty idea of preventing England from being a great powerful nation, but we wish to share with her the commerce of India and America; and we will not suffer the English to have any possession in the Mediterranean, Gibraltar excepted.

"If the English ministry purpose sending forth secret expeditions to those possessions which are too weakly garrisoned, to what point will they direct their forces? To the coast of Africa where they are null? To the island of Ceylon, where they will be but few in proportion to the danger? To the coasts of Coromandel, Malabar and Bengal, where they will also be insufficient?
To Jamaica, where they will also be inferior to the want? To Canada, to Surinam, Demerara, &c.? We do not entertain the ridiculous pretensions of conquering every where; but we wish every where to destroy our enemy, to destroy his commerce every where; to be in short the strongest wherever we please to present ourselves. The Insurance Companies will do well to augment their rates from day to day, for, until peace be signed, they will have pretty pickings. We inform them thus publicly, that there is not an important part of the vast ocean, where French ships are not cruising.

But the conditions of the peace we are speaking of are simple; the peace of Amiens, the whole peace of Amiens, nothing but the peace of Amiens; France will never sign any other."

THURSDAY, AUGUST 8.

FATAL DUEL.

It is with regret we announce the sacrifice of a victim at the shrine of the san-guinary practice of duelling. Yesterday morning, at 6 o'clock, a duel was fought between Mr. Enoch M. Lyles, of this town, and Mr. John E. Bowie, of Pisco-taway, Maryland, at Johnson's spring, about six miles from this town, on the Virginia side of the Potomac. They exchanged shots at fifteen feet distance; when, unfortunately, Mr. L. received his antagonist's ball a little below the right breast, the ball passed through his liver, and he expired a few minutes past eleven o'clock yesterday.

John A. Burford, the person apprehended on suspicion of wounding and robbing Mr. Peter, on Tuesday underwent his final examination before the magistrates, and was committed for trial at the next court, which commences on the 4th Monday of November next.

Whoever can make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, deserves better of mankind, and does more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together.

SWIFT.

Extracts from the third Volume of the Farmer's Magazine.

On fattening animals, particularly calves.

"All animals, when fattening ought to be excluded from light as much as possible, as the best and fastest mode of keeping them quiet. Exclusion from light is practised by those who fatten poultry for the London market with much success."

In fattening calves the Magazine says, "As soon as the calf is dropped it is put into a box made of coarse boards four and an half or five feet long, and four or four and an half feet high, and about two wide according to the size of the calf. The boards are not put so close but that a sufficient quantity of air is admitted: light is however carefully excluded; and the box has a cover for that purpose. The box stands on four feet, which at one end are four inches high, but at the other only two inches, and as there are holes at the bottom, all wetness is drained off. The bottom is also covered with straw or hay, which is changed twice a week.

For seven or eight days milk is but cautiously given; for unless a calf is fed moderately at first, it is apt to take a loathing to its food. It should be bled in about ten days, and afterwards as much milk given it fresh from the cow, either twice or thrice a day as it will take. The bleeding should be repeated once a week; and at all times when a calf loathes its milk, and does not feed well bleeding should be repeated. These frequent bleedings prevent diseases from plethora, to which calves are subject, even when not fed so high, and still more so when they are.

A large piece of chalk should be hung up in the box which the calf will lick occasionally; this contributes nothing to the whiteness of the veal; but it amuses the animal, and corrects that acidity in the stomach which might be otherwise engendered, and which certainly often takes place.

By this mode of treatment, calves are kept clean, quiet, warm, and dry; the veal they furnish is excellent, and they are soon ready for market.

and in all kinds of useful Needle-work; with Highway Robbery!

1500 Dollars Reward.

YESTERDAY, about 11 o'clock in the forenoon, MR. JOHN PETER, an officer of the Bank of COLUMBIA, was stopped on horseback on the road between this town and Alexandria, and within about two miles of the latter place, by some unknown villain, shot through the body with a pistol, and robbed of a sum of money in his possession belonging to this Institution, which he was taking to Alexandria, for the purpose of exchanging with the Bank there.

The whole sum taken amounted to Eighteen Thousand One Hundred and Fourteen Dollars and Sixty-five Cents, made up in packages—among which were

1 Post Note of the Bank of Virginia, for 800 dollars 1 ditto of the Bank of Alexandria for 500
1 ditto of the same for 500
1 ditto of the same for 450 1 ditto of the Bank of Potomac, 149 65 cents.

A Check of the Union Bank, on the Bank of Alexandria, drawn by R. Higinbotham, Cashier in favor of Greetham and Deverau, by them endorsed and by Benjamin Stoddert, and C.
Smith, Teller.

There were also a parcel of Post Notes of the Bank of Alexandria for 100 dollars and for 50 dollars each. The remainder was in current notes, principally of the banks of Alexandria and Potomac, and some few of the Bank of Virginia of different sizes and denominations.

As the ATTACK was SUDDEN, and the WOUND received of a nature to deprive Mr.
Peter instantly of his senses, (although it is now hoped he will recover) the description obtained may not be very accurate. As far as we are informed, the man who perpetrated the act, is of middle stature, good countenance, and had a general appearance. He had on a dark blue or black coat, nankeen pantaloons, shoes, and a black hat; he was on FOOT and ALONE at the time, but may have had accomplices concealed, and will probably change his clothes.

FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS will be given to any person or persons, who will detect and bring to conviction the ROBBER; and ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS additional for the recovery of the whole of the money, or in proportion to any smaller sum recovered. Should there be accomplices, and one of them make a discovery, so that it leads to the conviction of the robber, or to the recovery of the money, he shall receive the ABOVE REWARD, and in terest will be made to obtain his PAIDON.

WILLIAM WHANN,
Cashier of the Bank of Columbia.

WILL be sold at public sale on the premises, on the 2d day of the 6th month, (September) next, a Merchant and country Mill, with 170 acres of land, on which are sufficient houses for the accommodation of millers and others; situate on the river Rappahannock, about two miles below the town of Port Royal,

The Country Mill is nearly adjoining the other, has one overshot water wheel, and one pair of five feet Barr Stones, is surrounded terest of the money, the whole is supposed to be worth, in short this whole property is thought by judges to be the most valuable of the kind in the State of Virginia, and is sold in consequence of the death of Aquila Janney, to enable the subscriber to close the concerns of the late partnership of Aquila and Elisha Janney.

Terms of sale will be one fourth in cash, or an approved negotiable note at sixty days; the balance in three equal payments, at six, nine and twelve months, bearing interest from the day of sale, and to be secured in such manner as may be determined on and made known at the

RAN AWAY

FROM the subscriber on the 8th April 1805, a small Negro Man named NACE, 21 years old, about five feet high, dark complexion, a full ear on his upper lip, quick spoken: had on when he went away a striped shirt, striped cotton round over jacket, white dimity waistcoat, striped cotton pantaloons and a straw hat, but no doubt he has changed his dress by this time: he was seen at the fishing landings on the Potomac a few days after he left home. Probably he might get a passage in a fishing vessel to Baltimore or elsewhere: Whoever apprehends and secures the said negro man in any jail, or brings him home, so that I may get him again, shall be entitled to the above reward, including what the
